Latestest Fashions Presented at Tea

The Scottish Rite Temple, 2413 East 'C' Street, was the scene of a fashion show and tea on Saturday afternoon, October 25th. It was sponsored by the Puget Sound Chapter #800, ESAASRFM. Ladies' fashions were shown by The Lemon Tree, Tacoma Mall; men's fashions were from Mr. Rags, 16041 Bridgeport Way.

Travel features were by 'Holidays Unlimited' tours and travel. West Indian fashions were furnished and modeled by Mr. James Fefe. Original fashions were designed, made, and modeled by Miss Denise Dellingham.

The audience was treated to a superb tumbling demonstration by Little Miss Rose Donaldson, in addition to other entertainment.

Hostesses were Mrs. Carrie Jones and Misses Barbara Jones and Violet Potts.

Narrators were Mrs. Jeanette Taylor and Mr. William C. Hoots. Ms. Alice Greenidge was coordinator of the show, assisted by Mr. William C. Hoots.

HOME EYE TEST FOR PRESCHOOLERS

The Hilltop Jaycee Auxiliary is distributing a new Home Eye Test for Pre-schoolers to all of the parents of the children in a pre-school or day care center of the Hilltop area.

Its purpose is to help parents determine whether their children may have a vision problem. Because of the way in which sight develops in children, it is possible for a child to have a vision problem without the child or the parents being aware of it. It is important that such children be detected by the age of four--six at the latest--to prevent permanent vision loss and enable them to begin their school years with the best possible vision.

The Home Eye Test is produced by the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. It was thoroughly tested and approved by the Society's Committee on Eye Health of Children before being released for public use. Introduced in 1973, it has won the praise of eye doctors, pediatricians, public health and school health organizations.

The test, it must be emphasized, is not a substitute for a professional eye examination. It does point up signs of eye problems which indicate the need for an examination. It is simple to understand and to use.

If you would like to have a quantity of the free tests to give to parents of your children, call Sharon Smith at 752-1991 after 5:30 p.m. If any parent would like to have a test to give to their child, call Sharon Smith or contact any Hilltop Jaycee Auxiliary member. The Hilltop Jaycee Auxiliary's "Child's Right to Sight Project" is distributing the tests in your community as a public service project.

Thank you for helping us make sure that all the pre-school children in our community who need eye care are found in time.

Free Cancer Tests For Women Offered

Olympia--Free Pap tests to check for cancer of the uterus will be made available to eligible women in Pierce County over the next three years through the State Department of Social and Health Services.

Eligibility will be determined on the basis of family income. For example, the service will be free to a woman from a family of four with an income under about $9,000 per year. In addition to a Pap test, the woman will also receive a complete breast and pelvic exam. The exams will be done by local clinics and selected doctors in their offices.

This program is a supplement to the efforts of the Pierce County unit of the American Cancer Society, to assure that every woman will receive an annual Pap test. The Cancer Society reports that uterine cancer is the fourth leading cause of cancer deaths in women, despite the fact that uterine cancer is almost 100% curable when it is detected early. Early treatment will not interfere with a normal life. A yearly Pap test is the best way to assure early detection.

Women who wish to find out if they are eligible for a free Pap test and to find out where to get a Pap test should contact the Pierce County unit of the American Cancer Society at 383-1663.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES

Last week Congress acted to override President Ford's veto of the multi-million dollar school lunch and child nutrition act, removing, for awhile the spectre of starvation and malnutrition from children of low and "moderate" income families. The overwhelming vote (297-18 in the House and 79-13 in the Senate) should serve notice to the President that the lawmakers of this nation will not countenance any sacrifice to the well-being of our children in the name of "fiscal responsibility," "fighting inflation" or any of the other sacred cows held up by the White House to camoflauge its anemic record in promoting the general welfare of all Americans.

The veto override was the seventh that President Ford has suffered in the fourteen months since he ascended to the nation's highest office. Nearly all of them have involved cutbacks of social legislation. As time passes and the 1976 elections near, it becomes increasingly clear that Ford is prepared to do everything he can to champion the causes of right wing conservatism and emerge as the spokesman for those who favor decreased welfare spending and ever increasing advantages for big business.

President Ford's recent offer of a $28 billion tax cut in exchange for a similar cutback in spending for social programs is inspired by the same ultra-conservative objectives. No doubt the sponsors of such a carrot-on-a-stick proposal would just as soon do away with taxes altogether, if it weren't for the fact that so much of the money in the federal coffers now goes into the untiring effort to make the rich richer. Rather than risk losing such a lucrative golden goose, therefore, the nation's corporate welfare bums have concocted Ford's tax cut scheme, which seeks to slice away at the progressive, socially responsive portions of the federal budget and leave such plums as the defense contracts, oil depletion allowances and guaranteed loan programs intact.

In vetoing the child nutrition bill, however, Ford has clearly gone too far in trying to please his super-rich constituents. For even if Congress eventually falls for the $28 billion tax cut, they have made it abundantly clear that they're not going to snatch the revenues out of the mouths of babes. Black congressman Charles Rangel of New York spoke eloquently, if grimly, about hunger in the ghetto during the House of Representatives' debate on whether to override Ford's heartless veto. "In a nation of such tremendous wealth, it is ironic that we really do not have to look that far for examples of starvation," Congressman Rangel intoned. "Right here in our nation's capital, we have daily reports of children going to bed hungry and thus going to school improperly fed."

Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm carried the argument further, noting that the President considered the nutrition bill inflationary because it provides school lunches at a reduced price for "middle class" children. "But can we really say that a family of four whose annual income is between $6,000 and $10,000 is really a middle class family, given the ever spiraling cost of food?" she inquired, concluding, "These are the children who are leaving the school food programs because they simply cannot afford the full price."

This nation cannot afford undernourished youngsters, whether they be middle class or totally destitute. Repeated studies have shown that malnutrition at an early age can inhibit a person's ability to learn and concentrate and thus strictly handicap a child's intellectual, as well as physical development. Fortunately for all of us, Congress has overwhelmingly informed the politically motivated penny-pinchers in the White House that our children's future is too high a price to pay for their dishonorable conditions.

Upendo Club of Tacoma Presents Third Annual Halloween Carnival

The UPENDO Club of Tacoma will be having its third annual Halloween Carnival for elementary school children. Last year we celebrated the trick or treat event at the Malcolm X Center. This year, we will be doing it again at the same place.

We are asking the parents to bring the little ones out and help us in our efforts to keep the kids off the streets. We will have plenty of games, prizes, and lots of free candy.

The time is set for 6:30 PM, October 31, 1975, at the Malcolm X Center, 17th and 'K' Street. Admission is 35¢.

We'll be looking forward to seeing you there!

Job Hunting

By Chuck Hatten

Have you ever thought about where the minorities are in top management positions? What fields they are in? How they got started? How long they have been in their positions and how much upward mobility they have?

These and other questions pertaining to succeeding should be on your mind. It is very important for we, as Black and other minority people, to establish what direction we are going to take in our career selection. We need the advantage of getting a head start on non-minority people not because of a lack of abilities, but because of a lack of opportunities. It is highly imperative that we decide what we're going to do as early in life as possible.

If you were to ask all of the successful people who are doing what they like to do when they decided on their careers, the larger percentage would point out that it was early in life. The key to achievements is setting a goal and hammering at it until it is realized. If you set a realistic goal as a child, then you have lots of time to reach that goal. You also have time to change that goal if it becomes apparent that it was not realistic.

The employment picture is not getting any better. Sure, the unemployment rate is dropping some, but there are more people on the job market than there were in the first part of the year. As time goes on it is going to get tougher for anyone to get and maintain a position. Only those individuals who are knowledgeable in specific fields where there are demands will find themselves moving along the success ladder.

You may be saying that you're not interested in moving along the success ladder, that you are only interested in earning enough to provide you and your family with a decent living. If that were true then getting a raise or a promotion at your present company would only prompt you to turn it down, and you know that you wouldn't do that. It's a fact of life that if you are not growing then you are deteriorating. You don't have to be a person who will step on everyone else to get ahead, but you do have to be aggressive and knowledgeable. No one is going to give you anything. You have got to earn what you get. If someone gives you something that you have not earned, then it is probably not worth anything.

Term Limitation for State Office Holders

"Term limitation is an idea whose time has come," said Sen. Peter von Reichbauer, Democrat of Vashon Island and former Sen. Jack Metcalf, Republican of Mukilteo in announcing their bi-partison initiative drive.

Under their proposed initiative, all state-wide officeholders, including members of the Legislature, would be restricted to 12 consecutive years in one office.

An important part of this measure is that it does not contain a "grandfather clause," protecting incumbents from the effects of the act.

"Our state government is suffering from tired blood. I am proposing this initiative," said von Reichbauer, "because our state government is in desperate need of a transfusion of new blood--and I do not necessarily mean young blood, just new blood with a new perspective of the states' problems and potential.

Because of the immense power and name familiarity of incumbents it is almost impossible for a challenger to unseat an incumbent.

The sponsors of the initiative are seeking support from the public, and have asked all interested parties to write: Term Limitation, P.O. Box 877, Auburn, Wa 98002, or to call, (206) 927-1500.

They have until July 2, 1976 to get the needed 117,804 signatures to get the measure on the November, 1976 ballot.

"In 1972 we led the nation in political reform with Initiative 276," said the two sponsors, "and in 1976 we have the opportunity to again lead the nation with this timely governmental reform."

Halloween Suggestions

Haloween is not too far away and the Tacoma Police Department has a suggestion which might make this Halloween a more festive time for all members of the family.

"Instead of just sending the children out for 'Trick or Treat' activities, everyone in the family can participate in a 'Meet 'n Treat' program as suggested by the National Confectioners Association," explained Chief of Police Lyle E. Smith.

The "Meet 'n Treat" program has been described as a positive and constructive way to bring the people in a community together to celebrate the holiday with neighbors and friends. The Chief said the new program promotes parents donning costumes and making the door-to-door rounds with their children as a family.

"It's a great way to meet the neighbors and certainly affords better supervision of children than other programs which have been attempted in the past," Smith added. "If the program is limited to neighborhoods, block parties could be organized after the people had made their rounds. It could be an extremely festive event and is worth consideration," the Chief added.

In the event the "Meet 'n Treat" concept is not practical, the Chief reminded parents to stress several facts on their children as they go about the traditional "Trick or Treat" rounds.

Youngsters should be accompanied by parents or other responsible adults while they make the rounds of the neighborhood. Wrapped or "sealed" candy should be considered safe for consumption, but apples, oranges and other unwrapped items should be taken home for inspection before being eaten.

Children should call only at those homes where porch lights or yard lights are glowing. This has become an accepted practice of expressing willingness to "Trick or Treat" on the part of residents and eliminates those who do not wish to participate.

Costumes should be light in color, short enough to prevent tripping and made of non-flammable material. They may be decorated with reflective tape to provide even greater visibility after dark. Flashlights should be used to not only illuminate the way, but also serve as warning devices to approaching motorists of childrens' locations. Parents should also stress compliance with traffic laws and remind their children to cross only at corners; walk, don't run when crossing; look in all directions before crossing; never race across the street from between parked cars and use sidewalks whenever they are available.

The Chief added that Tacoma had been extremely fortunate in previous years with only minor accidents and very few tainted treats. Any tainted foods should be brought to the attention of the police department by calling 593-4911. "Most of the reports are false or pranks the children play themselves, but we still check out every report carefully to prevent injury to anyone," Smith added.

Life is one long struggle to think well of yourself.

CLASSES IN MAKING CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS AND GIFTS

Pine cones, corn husks and beer bottle caps will be used to make Christmas decorations during a five-week course starting Tuesday, November 4 at Tacoma Community College.

The leasses in the construction of Christmas decorations and gifts will be taught by Linda Senger from 7 to 9:30 p.m. each Tuesday evening in TCC's Building 15 through December 2.

Cost for the series is ten dollars. Students will be asked to pay from five to seven dollars for their own materials.

Those interested should register before the first class by calling the TCC admissions office at 765-5035.

Mrs. Senger, a former home economics teacher, says in-class construction includes a pine cone wreath, a corn husk wreath and a trivet out of beer tobbles caps. Other decorative ideas will be explained.

"I like to use natural things for my decorations," Mrs. Senger said.

TCC's ART FACULTY IN EXHIBIT

Four members of Tacoma Community College's art faculty will be contributing to the Tacoma Arts and Crafts Association exhibit at the Kitteredge Art Gallery, University of Puget Sound starting Sunday, November 2.

Works by Paul Michaels, Richard Rhea, Donald E. Tracey and Annetje Claringbould will be on display.

Paul Michales, art department chairman at Tacoma Community College will be feautred in two art exhibits during November.

His enamels will be part of the show which previews at the White Whale Gallery in Gig Harbor Wednesday, November 5, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Three other works will be showing at the State Capitol Museum in Olympia from November 2.

C O Warning From Police

Motorists are being warned today about a serious hazard which is more prevalent during the winter months than at other times of the year. Capt. William Luebke, Traffic Commander, said, "Carbon monoxide, CO, is a colorless, odorless and tasteless by-product of the internal combustion engine. It's a dealy killer and something everyone should understand and respect."

The Captain pointed out that winter months afforded a greater opportunity for CO buildup inside passenger compartments since vehicle windows are normally rolled up tight against rain and cold air. "City driving provides even greater potential dangers due to frequent and lengthy stops due to traffic congestion."

Operating at idle for prolonged periods of time, particularly in a closed or restricted area, with windows closed and oncomplete operation of the heating/cooling system can cause massive accumulations of CO.

Luebke said the safest way to avoid CO poisoning is to turn the fan on full and force the fresh air into the compartment. "Never operate the cooling or heating system in the 'off' position, however, as this merely allows the fan to circulate the stale air and doesn't permit fresh air to come from outside the vehicle. The fan and system both must be operating to provide sufficient quantities of fresh air."

If it is necessary to sit in a parked car with the engine running for more than a short period, be certain the fan is operating at maximum speed and the system is 'on' to permit admittance of fresh air.

Luebke pointed out that carbon monoxide builds up in a person's system and take a considerable length of time to disappear. "It is relatively easy to have such poisoning and not notice it. If you become groggy or sleepy, the chances are good that you have some carbon monoxide buildup if you've been barely mpving in heavy traffic or have parked and waited for someone to get off work."

The Captain added that carbon monoxide poisoning was serious and should not be taken lightly. "We see it's effects most in city driving where exhaust fumes just are not cleared away from the passenger compartment completely. Highway driving is relatively free of this hazard."

The police department also urged motorists to have the exhaust systems of their cars checked completely to assure no leaks are present. Any loose or broken elements in the exhaust system should be replaced immediately to prevent hazardous vehicle operation later.

Dear John . . .

Dear John,

My husband works for an insurance company and has recently been offered a promotion. But it means that we would have to move to the East coast.

I am the kind of wife who is willing to follow her husband wherever he goes and have decided not to influence his decision. My mother-in-law, however, has always had a great influence on my husband and has constantly been trying to persuade him to stay here, near her. Although I haven't told my husband, I, too, would prefer staying in Seattle, but I'm not going to help him make up his mind.

I strongly resent my mother-in-law's influence and fear that we may end up living with her decision. Should I tell her to stop interfering?

Signed,
Ticked-off

Dear Ticked-off,

I would let it all hang out. Sit down with both your husband and mother-in-law present, explain that you think this is an important decision that only your husband should make. That you have decided not to influence him and that you think no one else should, either.

Under those circumstances, both your husband and mother-in-law might get the picture. If not, at least your views are out in the open and it will come as no surprise if you have to eventually tell mama-in-law to 'back off'.

Dear John,

I am in love with a married man, and I think he is in love with me. He asked his wife for a divorce, but she has told him, "never".

Should I continue to see him secretly or should I quit him and hope to find another relationship with more future to it?

Signed,
Depressed

Dear Depressed,

Forgive me, but your situation is classic. Because of the many different opinions possible, I will leave it to our readers to provide advice.

WILD RICE.....There's something exotic and exciting about wild rice. The lusty, nut-like flavor holds its own in everything from old fashioned muffins to elegant casseroles and stuffed fowl.

MAHNOMA, "The Good Berry" is the Indian name for wild rice, a culinary delicacy and one of the truly American foods.

Most wold rice grows in the marshy lakes and rivers of Northern Minnesota, Wisconsin, Upper Michigan and Canada, though there is some wild rice in almost every state east of the Rocky Mountains.

Wild rice grows in cool waters less than three feet deep, where the seeds lie dormant on the lake or river bottom during winter and germinate in spring. The crop generally ripens in late August or early September, but the grains on each stalk don't all ripen at the same time. It takes about two weeks for a whole stalk to fully mature and as each grain ripens, it falls from the stalk. Thus it must be harvested several times to get the most from each stalk.

Traditionally, the harvesting of wild rice was the task of Indian women. Today, men share in the work load. Two people using a narrow canoe work together - one at the stern pushing the canoe and the other riding inside and handling two ricing sticks. One stick is used to bend the stalk into the canoe while the other is used to thresh off the ripe grains. In commercial production, the rice is harvested mechanically with a combine.

SHRIMP WILD RICE

2/3 cup uncooked wild rice, 2 cups chicken stock, 1/4 tsp. salt. Simmer 45 minutes.

Add:

1 cup diced green pepper	2 diced tomatos	2 pounds large shrimp
1 cup chopped celery	1 cup chicken broth
1 diced small onion	1/2 tsp. sweet basil
1 clove finely diced	1/2 tsp sage
1/4 cup olive oil	1/4 tsp pepper and salt

Cook green pepper, celery, onion, garlic in olive oil until tender, about 5 minutes. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer 10 minutes. Garnish with chopped green onions.

MANDARIN ORANGE WILD RICE PUDDING

1/3 cup uncooked wild rice	1 cup milk	1 cup flour
2 cups water	5 eggs	1/4 cup butter
1/2 tsp. salt	3/4 tsp. salt

Wash rice and drain. Simmer rice in salt water until tender, 45 minutes. Drain. Beat eggs, add milk, salt, and stir in flour. Let stand about 30 minutes.

Heat over to 450 degrees. Melt butter in 9 inch pie plate. Stir rice into egg mixture. Pour into pie plate. Bake until set, 25 to 30 minutes. Garnish with mandarin oranges. Serve with barbecued meats or roasts.

Clover Park School District Activities

The Clover Park Council of Parent Cooperative Preschools, coordinated by Clover Park Education Center, announces the following activities for the month of November.

All preschools in the Clover Park Council are making plans to participate in the annual "Creative Art and Toy Fair" to be held Saturday, November 15th from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Lochburn Jr. High School.

Bethel Parent Cooperative Preschool will meet Tuesday, November 18 at 8 p.m. in the school. Attorney Robert Klavano will discuss "Legal Responsibilities of Parents of Young Children".

CORNERSTONE

Because of the favorable response I got on the numerology birthdate analysis, I will again use numerology (which has its origin in astrology) to analyze the cornerstone letter of your name. The cornerstone of a name is the first letter of the first name. The first letter of a person's name is the foundation upon which the rest of the name and a person's character functions. This is really the most important letter in a person's name. In the next issue there will be a follow up. Cornerstone Chart II. So keep this issue and use both charts for reference.

CORNERSTONE CHART I

The number 1 (letters A, J, S). This person will be individualistic, ambitious and will have great drive.

The number 2 (letters B, T, K). This person will be quiet, calm, tactful, diplomatic, charming. He will be a soft spoken mediator.

The number 3 (letters C, I, U). This person will be charming, outgoing, talented, creative, vital.

The number 4 (letters D, M, V). This person will be balanced, organized, patient, persevering, conservative and will have great will power.

The number 5 (letters E, N, W). This person will be adventurous, restless, unreliable, resourceful, clever, daring, generous.

The number 6 (letters F, O, X). This person will be very responsible, very domesticated, very cooperative, friendly and talented.

The number 7 (letters G, Y, P). This person will be shy, introverted, introspective, intuitive, profound, philosophical.

The number 8 (letters H, Q, Z). This person will be powerful, efficient, capable, strong, determined, ambitious. A practical leader.

The number 9 (letters L, R). This person will be friendly, kind, generous, charming, affable, sensitive, artistic, individualistic, strong willed, determined.

The number 11 (letter K). This person will be idealistic, intuitive, humanitarian, not too practical.

The number 22 (letter V). This person will be supremely capable at and successful at anything he puts his mind to do so long as he can find a goal to aim for.

ASTROLOGER'S NOTE: This cornerstone chart can be especially useful when correlated to the chart of the spiritual-intellectual, emotional and physical planes for we can then get the added dimension of what a person's character is based upon. So be sure and watch for it.

BLACK BUSINESSMEN'S ASSOCIATION

The Black Businessmen's Association is happy to announce their choice of 'Black Businessman of the Week', for the week of November 2nd. He is Mr. Dwight Morton Edwards, who is single and lives at 1414 South Mildred. Mr. Edward is a native Tacoman; he was born here, attended Lincoln High School, then went to Central Washington State College where he majored in political science. He is a member of Peoples Church and belongs to The Smithsonian Institute. For relaxing he enjoys reading and listening to music.

The main feature of his business deals with rehabilitating homes and providing counseling for displaced families. Mr. Edwards would like for people to become more knowledgeable of services the city has to offer so that they can take advantage of them. There are many services offered that people don't know about. Find out about these services, and then be sure to follow through.

Looking For Gold? Prospectors To Conduct Seminar

The Gold Prospectors Assn. of America will be having a Gold Prospecting Seminar in this area, Thursday, November 6th at the Hilton Inn, Sea-Tac Airport, from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. This Seminar is FREE to the public and some of the topics to be covered are: How to use the Gold Pan, where to look and what to look for; and field tests and staking of gold mining claims. They will show a movie made in 1931, covering all phases of gold mining and prospecting.

Between 1860 - 1959 a total of 2,671,026 ounces of gold was recovered in Washington. Annual gold production has been steady for more than a century, and today Washington is the only state in America where gold recovery is increasing.

Early-day miners, following the first discovery of gold in the Yakima River in 1853, certainly failed to recover all the gold in the many stream placers where they wielded pan, rocker, sluice, and large-scale hydraulic and dredging equipment. Recently, an old placer operation at Liberty, Kittitas County, was reworked along a small part of the once extensively placered channel, with a new production of twenty pounds of gold nuggets being recovered.

Commercial placer gold prospecting and mining has continued from the earliest days right to the present, and each summer finds very many amateur gold hunters and scuba divers busily hunting new gold in the old distructs, especially along the Columbia and Snake River bars, where a new supply of fine placer gold is deposited by every spring runoff of snow-melt waters. Considerable unexploited virgin placer deposits are known, and mining claims may still be taken up and worked at a profit. Some of the as yet undiscovered auriferous deposits were simply overlooked by the prospectors of the past; other deposits are only just now becoming accessible over recently built roads and trails.

The incentive for the weekend and vacation gold seeker is the steady trickle of profits available from placer (plas-er) mining once the main source of the world's gold and still the only form of gold prospecting that can be pursued economically by anyone with some time off and the price of a pan to sort out the gifts or river and stream.

This economical route to a golden opportunity is made possible by the fact that placer gold, unlike the pick and shovel "lode" gold of hardrock mining operations is free gold lying near and on the earth's surface. Washed down from some hard-rock "mother lode" area by the erosive action of rains, wind and running streams, it is carried along in rivers and run offs to be deposited in concentrated pockets along the way. These pockets, known as "placer deposits" are the attraction that lures today's amateur prospectors, whose numbers include thousands of weekend and vacation campers. If you take your own fun in the outdoors and want to make like a miner, it is well to keep in mind that the rewards on the average are small, but so is the investment. An outlay of under ten dollars can put you in the stream with the old timers. And, if you follow the instructions from GPAA on what to buy, where to go, what to look for and what to do, you'll be on your way -- if not to a gold strike -- at least to a wealth of fresh air and healthful exercise.

Buzzard George showing how to use Gold pan.

GPAA has several thousand members, concentrated mainly in the western United States. Their president, George Massie (better known as "Buzzard George") and Chuck Blem, will be the main and featured speakers. "Buzzard George" has been a professional miner for the last 10 years and is well known throughout the Western states. He has had many experiences which are of benefit to the weekender as well as the professional miner. Chuck has been mining for the last 3 years. These two gentlemen put on one of the most informative seminars on prospecting for gold and other minerals around the west.

There will be many types of mining equipment on display including a Dual Helix mineral classified (manufactured in Dallas, Ore.), plus the new "4" Oregon Gold dredge (Manufactured in Eugene) but the Gold Prospectors Assn. does not sell any equipment.

The reason for the seminars is that the recent advent of legalization of Gold has lured many people out on their weekend and vacations to prospect. A lot of these people are going into areas that are not open to mineral entry. They are going onto other people's claims and many of the 1872 Mining Laws are being broken. Because of this, and other reasons, there is a bill pending in the U.S. Senate, which would repeal the 1872 Federal Mining Laws and require even the rankest amateur to lease land before he could prospect. (Senate Bill S-507) "Sponsored by Medcalf". That would put the little guy out of business.

United Airlines Host National Business League

United Airlines hosted a dinner for the board members of the National Business League and the heads of other business oriented organizations who make up the Committee for National Policy Review at the 75th Diamond Anniversary Convention of NBL at the Sheraton Boston Hotel. The National Business League was founded in Boston under the leadership of Booker T. Washington in 1900.

United Airlines also entertained the delegates and guests at the opening reception of the convention.

Winterize Now !

Sharp motorists don't wait until winter weather hits, they winterize their vehicles now and avoid the rush later. The Tacoma Police Department suggested area residents would be wise to begin winterizing their nehicles since inclement weather conditions are already here and will only tend to deteriorate in the coming weeks.

Windshield wipers are perhaps one of the most important parts of the vehicle to check. Worn and damaged wiper blades should be replaced in order to provide you with as clear vision as possible.

Defrosters should be checked to be certain nothing has fallen down into the ducts over the summer and will block a full supply of air to clear moisture from windshields.

Exhaust systems should be serviced as necessary with worn out mufflers and pipe being replaced since both are safety hazards and could result in serious accidents due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Water hoses should be checked and if worn, replaced to prevent delays when they break in the middle of traffic, as a result of lack of attention.

Headlights should be aligned for proper distance and position since earlier hours of darkness will necessitate their use more than during the summer months. (All lights should be checked and those not working should be replaced.)

Not to be forgotten is the driver, who also must be "winterized" at the same time as his car is winterized. Capt. William Luebke, Traffic Division Commander, said motorists should remember to alter their driving patterns to coincide with the weather conditions.

"The driver who continues to drive his car the same as he did during the summer, is asking for trouble," Luebke explained. "Wet pavement means slow down and from the accident reports we have taken in the past week to ten days, I'd say most of the people have forgotten about that safety precaution. With an enormous amount of fender benders, there is a definite pattern developing...people just not driving within the bounds of the road and weather conditions."

Luebke stressed allowing greater stopping distances between vehicles, slower starts and stops and reduced speeds as several things every motorist should remember as winter approaches.

"In addition, people should remember to sue their headlights going to and from work. Even though it may be fairly light out, the headlights help you be seen by other motorists if weather conditions are not the best. However, you should remember to turn the lights off upon reaching your destination to avoid a dead battery," Luebke concluded.

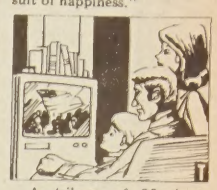
The superstition that it's unlucky to wash blankets in May survives in some parts of England.

MAKING FAMILY LIFE MORE FUN

TOGETHERNESS

Your family might have more and better conversations with each other, if you spend more time watching television.

In the near future, American families will have an opportunity to explore the true meaning of Thomas Jefferson's statement that all men "...are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."



A trilogy of 90-minute Bicentennial television documentaries entitled "Life," "Liberty," and the "Pursuit of Happiness" has been written by noted news correspondent David Brinkley for presentation between July, 1975 and July, 1976.

The programs are based on the past, present and future of the American way of life. Each show is designed to educate American families about their heritages and stimulate interesting conversations concerning the future.

The first program, "Life," to be shown on October 28, features celebrated author Studs Terkel in a supportive role and is mainly concerned with life in America's past, how the country grew and how early Americans fought for the right to live their own way in freedom greater than had been available to them before.

"Liberty," the second program which airs on March 30, 1976, deals with how our system of laws evolved and what these laws mean today in relationship with Jefferson's original concept of liberty.

The last program in the trilogy "The Pursuit of Happiness," will be shown on May 27, 1976 and attempts to show how this nation will fare during the years ahead.

Viewed together or separately, these programs will provide you and your family with lively material for discussion well beyond America's 200th birthday.

Notice

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

WILLIAM LEWIS, et al., Plaintiffs vs. WESTERN AIRLINES, INC. Defendant	NO. C-72-2020 OJC
EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION, Plaintiff-Intervenor, vs. WESTERN AIRLINES, INC., Defendant	NOTICE OF PENDANCY OF CLASS ACTION AND PROPOSED SETTLEMENT TO MALE AND BLACK APPLICANTS FOR FLIGHT ATTENDANT POSITIONS AT WESTERN AIRLINES, INC.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a hearing will be held in Courtroom No. 11 at the United States Courthouse, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, at 10:00 a.m., on December 12, 1975, for consideration of any showing why a proposed settlement and compromise of the action Lewis, et al. and Equal Employment Opportunity Commission v. Western Airlines, Inc., Civil Action No. C-72-2020 OJC, brought by William Lewis, Russell Mattis, Gary Broderick and Lucille Johnson on account of alleged discrimination in the hiring of flight attendants, should not be approved and confirmed by the Court as fair, just and equitable.

At the hearing the Court may approve or disapprove the proposed settlement without further notice. The Court may also continue the hearing without further notice.

Plaintiffs brought this case as a class action on behalf of themselves and all persons similarly situated, alleging sex and race discrimination in employment with respect to the recruitment and hiring of flight attendants. On April 21, 1975, the Court certified the case as a class action with two subclasses as follows: (1) all black persons (estimated to total 1500 to 2000) who filed an application for employment as flight attendants since January 1, 1971, with Defendant WESTERN AIRLINES and were not hired; (2) all males (approximately 4800) who filed an application for employment as flight attendants since January 1, 1971, with Defendant WESTERN AIRLINES and were not hired.

This notice is being sent to you as a member of such class to bring to your attention the maintenance of such an action on your behalf and the terms of a proposed settlement approved by the Plaintiffs, the Defendants and the EQUAL EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY COMMISSION (hereinafter "EEOC"). The Court has tentatively approved the settlement, but this tentative approval is also subject to any showing made to the Court why the settlement should not be approved.

PLEASE NOTE THE FOLLOWING:

1. The settlement herein, if finally approved by the Court, will terminate your individual rights to bring an action against the Defendant for the same relief.

2. Any member of the class as defined who desires to do so may appear at the hearing on December 12, 1975, to show cause why the settlement and compromise described below should not be approved, and why this action should not be disposed of in accordance with the terms of said settlement and compromise, and may present any objection that may be proper and relevant to the issues to be heard. However, it is further provided that no person shall be heard and no papers or briefs submitted by any such person shall be received and considered except by special permission of the Court, unless on or before December 5, 1975, said person files with the Court a written notice of intenflon to appear.

3. In order to participate in the monetary benefits provided by this settlement and described below, class members must submit a written request for inclusion in these benefits to Judy Maynard, Trial Attorney, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, San Francisco Litigation Center, 1390 Market Street, Suite 1010, San Francisco, California 94102, no later than January 23, 1976. Each request shall include your name, address and approximate date of application to WESTERN AIRLINES. All written requests must be submitted on or before January 23, 1976, and will be verified by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Distribution of monetary amounts will be made to class members in proportionate shares, related to the length of time between their initial application and the present date.

4. If you do not object to this proposed settlement you need take no action other than submission of the request for inclusion in the benefits referred to above and the attorneys representing the Plaintiffs and the EEOC will continue to act in your behalf.

5. By entering into the proposeddecree, WESTERN does not admit to nor has the Court made any determination that there is or has been violation of any law, rule or regulation. No findings of any kind have been issued by the Court concerning the merits of any of the allegations made by Plaintiffs or made by the EEOC.

THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT

The parties through their counsel have approved and agreed to a compromise settlement of all issues in the case, including a proposed consent decree and full settlement of the action. The proposed consent decree is before the Court pending consideration of any showing why it should not finally be approved. A copy of the proposed consent decree is available for examination by persons who may be members of the class, or their designated counsel, in the Office of the Clerk, United States District Courthouse, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, Monday through Friday, between the hours of 8:45 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., holidays excluded, during the period of October 24 through December 12, 1975.

The only complete statement of the settlement terms is contained in the consent decree itself, which is available to class members for inspection as stated above. A general description of the class compromise settlement follows:

WESTERN will, pursuant to the settlement, adopt an 11% annual black hiring goal for flight attendant positions until such time as the number of black persons employed as flight attendants equals 6.8% of the total number of persons in that classification. WESTERN also will adopt a 33-1/3% annual male hiring goal for flight attendant job positions. This male hiring goal shall remain in effect until the number of males in flight attendant positions equals 20% of the overall total number of flight attendants or until 1,200 flight attendant positions have been filed by WESTERN, whichever first occurs.

WESTERN also will deposit the sum of $40,000 in an interest bearing bank account for disbursement to qualified class members. Disbursement of the fund will be undertaken by the court pursuant to instructions from the EEOC. Disbursement will be made to those class members who submit a written request for inclusion in the class. All blacks and males who applied for, but failed to receive, a position as flight attendant with WESTERN AIRLINES between January 1, 1971 and June 20, 1975, are advised to submit a written request for inclusion as outlined above.

Under the proposed settlement agreement, WESTERN also has undertaken various recruitment activities designed to increase the flow of qualified male and black applicants for its available flight attendant positions.

The EEOC has undertaken to monitor compliance with the terms of the consent decree, and WESTERN has agreed to assist in this process by adopting various procedures for reporting to that agency.

In addition to these provisions, the four class representatives shall receive in settlement of their individual claims the following sums: WILLIAM LEWIS - $4,500; RUSSELL MATTIS - $400; GARY BRODERICK - $400; LUCILLE JOHNSON - $700.

The EEOC is an agency of the United States Government and will not receive an attorney's fee. The private attorneys for the representative Plaintiffs will receive under the terms of the settlement attorneys' fees in the sum of $38,500. The EEOC and the private Plaintiffs also will be reimbursed by WESTERN for the litigation costs expended in the action.

The Court is to retain jurisdiction in the case, and under this jurisdiction it will have the power and authority to amend, modify and alter the terms of the decree to effectuate the basic purpose of the decree of promoting the federal policies outlined in Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Subsequent modifications to the decree may be made without further notice to the class.

This notice has been approved by counsel for all parties and by the Court.

Dated: October 24, 1975.

"BE PREPARED..."

Future patrons of the Seattle King Domed Stadium, take note. Will Seattle be a civilized place, respecting its King Dome as a plush, fancy place to go for rest, relaxation, and entertainment, a place, where they just happen to stage athletic contests between football organizations, and between baseball groups?

Or will Seattle's King Dome be just another football stadium?

Well, one might think that, after spending $60 million plus of taxpayer money in building the thing, the taxpayer-fans who use it would treat it with utmost reverence. But, cost is apparently not a measure of respect. For lo, witness the case of New Orleans.

The New Orleans Super Dome, though admittedly somewhat larger than the King Dome will be (and with a lot more plush features, like carpeting and such). But still, according to New Orleans engineer Mark Carrigan, even though their Super Dome is 'a nice, civilized facility', people insist on "treating it as a plain old football stadium".

And just what is it that those evil, uncouth New Orleans "plain old football stadium" patrons are doing?

Spitting.

It seems that beer and hotdog stands and restrooms are located on a concourse that runs all the way around the stadium, 'way up in the air. Patrons who go to this concourse don't miss anything that is happening down on the field, because the concourse is open on the side that faces the field; the only thing between the patrons and the rest of the stadium is a railing. And we all know what railings are good for: throwing things over.

So what is happening? People sitting down at ground level, in the expensive, good-view seats (that just happen to be directly under the concourse) are finding themselves in a rainstorm. Only it isn't a rainstorm of water; it's a rainstorm of garbage: hotdog wrappers, mustard, ketchup, drink cups (full and empty)--and spit!

Dome officials admit that the architect goofed in not realizing that just putting a railing around the concourse was an invitation to disaster. "The way this thing is constructed, says Charles Kronlage, an attorney for the Dome, "it is almost an invitation to throw something over it." Kronlage says he feels that there is no point in trying to prosecute the offenders.

Why?

Well, it seems that not only is the railing an invitation to throw things, but it is the kind of invitation that brings out the absolute worst in everyone. How else can you explain the fact that many of the 68 juveniles arrested for spitting last week were Boy Scouts? And what court is going to convict Boy Scouts?

Instead of prosecuting, the Dome officials are just going to spend $60,000 and turn the railing into a wall that no one can possibly throw anything over.....Or spit over, either.

On the other hand, it mightn't hurt to remember the Boy Scout motto....."Be prepared....."

Letter Praises Garfield Student Body

Mr. Roscoe Bass, Principal
Garfield High School
400 23rd Avenue
Seattle, Washington

Dear Mr. Bass:

I attended the Garfield-Sealth football game last evening at Memorial Stadium and I wanted to tell you how very impressed and pleased I was with the entire experience. The team, of course, is terrific but what impressed me the most was the behavior of the student body and the absolutely fantastic band.

As a parent of teenagers and a football fan, I have attended games involving every team for miles around. The kids are always enthusiastic, sometimes ill-behaved, and generally not too involved with what is happening on the field. The bands range from mediocre to dreadful, with the standards of performance and behavior that are in effect in school usually totally forgotten. The Garfield students were with their team on every play. The fact that you have a winning team no doubt makes it easier to be a good supportive fan. But, whatever the reason, the horseplay and hassling that are usually the main activities of the students wasn't there last night.

That band is something else ! They are disciplined, well-trained, terribly talented musicians who are obviously under excellent leadership. It seemed to me that the band provided a great deal of the "glue" that kept everyone, players, students, and fans, together. I dare anyone not to be pretty caught up in the game and all the good feelings that go with it when that band fires up. Your band director must be a wonder to accomplish all that magic. It was very moving to me to see some of your players come back on the field after the game to march and dance along with the band - that's very special.

I have a daughter who will finish her 8th grade year as a VRT student at Meany this year. She's a fine bass clarinet player and is looking forward to playing with another fine group - hopefully as good and as exciting as Wadie Ervin's program at Meany. The mechanical problems of getting a child from the north end to Garfield each day are not small. However, after last night (plus all the other good things we know are happening at Garfield), we will somehow work out a way for her to attend Garfield next year. I wouldn't want her to miss out on the feelings of being totally together as a student body that I think will be there. And, I wouldn't want her to miss out on the magic of the band.

Congratulations to you, your staff, and that band director - and thank you for the most enjoyable experience I've had in a long time.

Sincerely,

Huskies Face the Bruins

LOS ANGELES--UCLA's closest--and most intense--rivalry in Pacific-8 Conference football play is renewed this Saturday (Nov. 1) when the Bruins host the Washington Huskies in Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum. The kickoff is 1:30 p.m.

The Huskies come into this game with a one-game lead, 19-18-1, in this traditional series dating back to 1932. But the Bruins are hoping to even it up Saturday, especially if the trend of victories for the home teams in this rivalry continues.

Washington hasn't won in Los Angeles since 1961 while UCLA has fared even worse in Seattle, having gone winless there since 1958.

And although they'll be the underdogs Saturday, the Huskies--under their new coach Don James--are a team that is still very much in the conference race. They are 2-1 in league play and could be 3-0 if they hadn't lost a 24-21 heartbreaker to Stanford two games ago.

Overall, Washington is 3-4 but played a mighty tough intersectional schedule, losing to such nationally-ranked powers as Alabama (No. 5 last week), Texas (No. 8) and Arizona State (No. 11). The Huskies' non-league win was over Navy and they've beat Oregon and Oregon State in Pac-8 play.

But Washington was really impressive last Saturday as they swept to a decisive 35-7 victory over Oregon State.

UCLA coach Dick Vermeil expects another tough test Saturday. He said, "We'll have to play our best to hold off the Huskies, a team that is coming strong after playing three of the nation's top teams in intersectional play.

"In other words, they won't be awed by us after playing the likes of Alabama, Texas and Arizona State."

But coach Vermeil was pleased with the play of his Bruins in beating a strong California team, 28-14, last Saturday to give UCLA a perfect 3-0 Pac-8 record and a tie for the league lead with USC's defending champions.

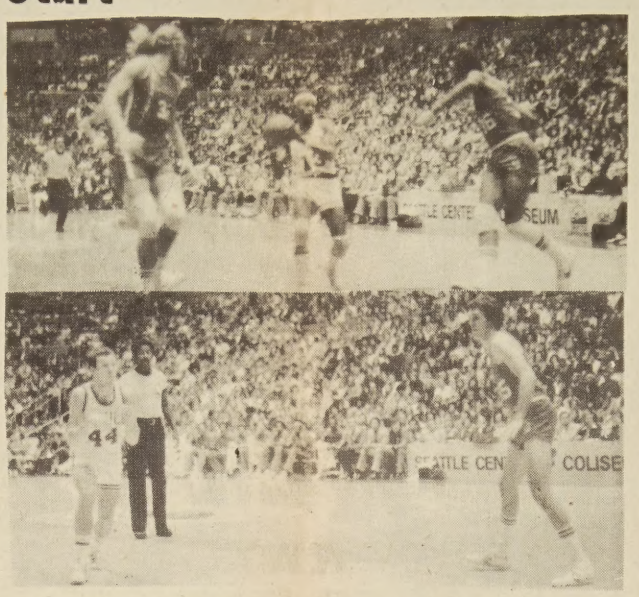
Sonics Off To A Running Start



Congratulations, Seattle, on the birth of the sneaker smokin' Seattle SuperSonics! The date? Well, last weekend, of course. Vital statistics? Seattle 105, Portland 97. Seattle 113, Phoenix 99.

And the proud papa, Bill Russell, said:

"Now I enjoy watching the game."

Of course the season is only two days old, and of course the Sonics have yet to be tested on the road, and of course the Sonics are a young team (average age, 23.8 years; average years of experience, only 1.7), and of course they no longer have Spencer Haywood, but Seattle's GM and coach is happy.

"I'm looking ahead.....this is our team, and I don't know what our record is going to be, but I can tell you that I'm not afraid of this team on the road."

And on the road the quick-starting Sonics will head, with games on Tuesday at Chicago, Wednesday in Kansas City and Friday from Los Angeles, where KIRO Television will beam back the action for the first time this season. Seattle returns home for a meeting with Washington on Sunday, with a 7 o'clock Coliseum starting time.

Just 10 days ago, Russell was worried.

"Ten days ago I had a sinking feeling. We had a bad ball club 10 days ago. What happened? A lot of little things. Leonard (Gray) and Fred (Brown) got their contracts straightened out. Bruce Seatls and Tommy Burleson are in better shape. And adding Herm Gilliam helped a lot."

And thus, the Sonics started with a blast, running around, over and under two Pacific Division opponents before 13,000-plus fans each night and giving them their money's worth.

Little Slick Watts, responding to his call as co-captain with teammate Gray, proved the catalyst, pushing the ball up the floor and causing havoc wherever he ran. Fred Brown, one of only three Sonics with more than two years of NBA experience, helped provide the offensive punch. Gray was steady and accurate, Talvin Skinner (who stepped in at the other starting spot) played his usual top notch defense, Seals came off the bench with strong rebounding and defense....and, well, the whole darn team played well.

If this team can maintain the same momemtum on the road, the season prognosis could be bright. Sonics' tradition, however, is not with them, as this club in eight previous years has never won more than 18 games on the road.

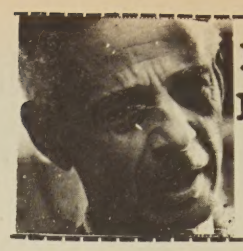
And so, they're off! Four rookies, four sophomores, one man with two years experience and three with four or more years NBA time under their sneakers.....all apparently ready to conquer the world. And if last weekend is any indication, it will be an interesting conquest at that.

Sour note: The Sonics lost to Chicago, but they played hard.

When the Sonics aren't running up and down the court, Assistant General Manager Bob Walsh will keep the fans well entertained with a wide variety of talent appearing at home games this season.

Several national stars will make appearances, including the Drifters, Johnny Tillotson, Jimmie Rodgers, the New Kingston Trio, and the Platters.

In addition, the Seattle Symphony Orchestra, which proved to be a great success in a pre-game concert last season, has set two dates to play pop tunes this season under the direction of conductor Norman Leyden.



Ringside Northwest

Hi Boxing Fans -- This week I'm caught with the new policy of writing this on Monday for the Wednesday release. Let me tell you it is going to be hard as the boxing news really gets started the first of the week. I know that most of you fans were at the SEALES-LANKESTER fight because I saw you there. The fights were good as you could expect here with the talent that's available in town. I thought the best fight of the night was the JONES-TOWHILL fight with the old pro showing the youngster what it was all about. The fight that was a complete dud was the one between ARRINGTON-HENDERSON. You had a hard ounching young man against a real old man. HENDERSON fought ART ADAMS in Los Angeles in 1965. That was when I had ADAMS and HENDERSON was a man then. In fact he had to be near 40 years of age the other night. As you can see on Monday there is hardly any news when I have to write about these kinds of stories. Maybe things will get better when AL FORD gets in town. Yes, he will be here soon to restart his climb to the top and I expect that he and TOMMY HOWARD will excite the crowds here and all over the world. Now I must close and get on the phone to the various leaders of the boxing centers and get them fights as a team. Hope to have much more to tell you about next week. Sorry it's so short but as I said I was caught short. CI BON
